May 2019

From the desk of Pastor Mark Hollinger

As we move into May I cannot help but think about our graduating seniors, whether that's high school or college, and our confirmation class graduates. We will be celebrating both of those achievements on May 19th. I think about all that I went through as I moved to college and then out of college into the world. In both of these instances and it doesn't matter if a graduating high school senior is moving on to some higher education or not, our young people in this stage in their lives are moving out into a world with more responsibilities and independent choices. They move out with less support from home and into new relationships and friends and all of this can cause parents, teachers, grandparents and pastors some angst and worry.

The culture today (as compared to the days of my youth) moves faster and just swirls all around us. We are saturated with our culture and it tells us not just what to hear and what to do but how to hear and how to interact. Our culture goes a long way in shaping our values and thus our ethics and actions and the advent of smart phones and iPods and iPads only makes the presence of culture pervasive, like 24 hours a day pervasive.

As Christians we are called to be counter-cultural. And yet many churches and the people who attend them have become so saturated in the culture that we are not much different from everybody else. It is because of this development that many people are opting out of church all together. This isn't something new but an attitude and cynicism that started at least 25 years ago. So what does it mean to be counter-cultural? It most certainly doesn't mean that we opt out of the world and retreat into monasteries or cloistered churches. We are called to transform the world and you can't do that by retreating out of the world.

To be counter-cultural means to be truly Christ-like. We cannot convey anything related to the truth of Christ apart from reflecting Christ Himself. One of the reasons the early church spread like wildfire and became the state religion in just 300 years after Christ's resurrection is that the church and its members were very much like Jesus, so much so that the name "Christian" (meaning "little Christ") came into existence (Acts 11). Pagans would marvel at Christians and say, "See how they love one another."

I recently read of a person saying to another, "God looks good on you." The context made it clear that it wasn't meant to say that God looked on them in a favorable way, as in God's spirit toward them, but that when people looked on their life, it made God look good. God should look good on us to others. God looked good on Jesus. I've always marveled at how Jesus could proclaim absolute truth without compromise to those far from God, and then have those very people invite Him to their parties.

Many of those outside of the Christian faith think Christians no longer represent what Jesus had in mind – that Christianity in our society is not what it was meant to be. We're seen as hyper-political, out of touch, pushy in our beliefs, arrogant and judgmental. Simply put, in the minds of many, modern day Christianity no longer seems Christian. We've acted in ways, talked in ways, lived in ways that have stolen from God's reputation. So while we used to have a culture saying, "God, yes; Church, no," it's now saying, "God, perhaps; Christianity and Christians, no." Yet the church remains the hope of the world.

I hope and pray that as our graduates and confirmands work their way into the world they will understand that we are called to be little Christ's into the world. My prayer is that we as members of Cridersville UMC have that same understanding and that God will look good on us.

So we are ambassadors for Christ, since God is making his appeal through us.

HAPPY
Mother's DAY

Sunday, May 12th

Joys of Motherhood

- A hug for no reason.
- Belly laughs.
- The light-bulb moment when your child understands something you've been trying to teach them.
- Smiles and giggles.
- Mud pies.
- Arms raised in the air after a big accomplishment.
- Hearing Scripture and prayer from your child's lips.
- Quiet moments on the couch.
- Reading aloud together.
- A family meal filled with conversation and laughter.
- Watching your child be kind to another.
- Recognizing a moment you'd like to freeze in time.
- A child's look of surprise and joy.
- A quiet conversation that heals a wounded heart.
- The words "I love you" — and a sticky kiss.

Attention to all our Amish book fans we have two new Beverly Lewis books! Thanks to a friend of our library who likes Beverly Lewis books and donates them to our library after she has bought and read them. This person is not even a member of our church! The two books are: THE ROAD HOME and THE FIRST LOVE. I read and enjoyed both books.

“TEA LEAVES”, DEVOTIONAL MEDITATIONS FOR WOMEN”, compiled by Nancy Stuzman, is written by twelve missionary mothers. The dozen missionary and ministers’ wives who submitted these pages do not claim to be professional writers. Yet they have a message to convey. Through their trials and their triumphs, their faith in God has been refined and enlarged, and they want to share with others.

Thought for the day: “Do your best today and let it go at that”
